INTRODUCTION - A LONG(ER), GOAL ORIENTED, ROAD TO ADULTHOOD	13
CHAPTER 1 - THEORETICAL APPROACHES OF GOALS: GLIMPSES ON ACHIEVEMENT AND COMPETENCE	19
1.1 Achievement goals: defining competence	22
1.2 Achievement goals and ability perceptions	23
1.2.1 Performance versus mastery orientation	23
1.2.2 Task-involved versus ego-involved orientation	24
1.3 The approach – avoidance dimension of achievement goals	26
1.4 Self-determination and achievement goals	27
1.5 Self-efficacy and achievement goals	29
1.6 Goal-setting and achievement	31
1.7 Achievement goals: rejoicing on theoretical grounds	33
CHAPTER 2 - ACHIEVEMENT MOTIVATION: WHAT DO WE REALLY MEASURE?	37
2.1 Mapping intentionality and self-regulation through goal dimensions and processes	40
2.2 Experimental conceptualizations and appraisals of achievement goals	42
2.3 The relation achievement goals - performance	44
2.3.1 Performance indicators	45
2.3.2 Performance contingencies	49
2.4 Self-set versus assigned goals: achievement goal induction strategies	50
2.4.1 Assigned goals	50
2.4.2 Self-set goals	52

2.5 Assessment of achievement goals through questionnaires	53
2.6 Methodological dimensions in experimental studies on achievement goals: some concluding remarks	54

CHAPTER 3 - BE THE BEST: MASTERY VERSUS PERFORMANCE GOALS IN COMPETITIVE CONTEXT 57

3.1 The dynamics of achievement goals in competition framed contexts	59
3.1.1 Mastery versus competition orientation	59
3.1.2 Defining a competition context	60
3.1.3 The dynamics of mastery goals in a competition context	62
3.1.4 Performance indicators, performance contingencies, and goal orientations	63
3.2 STUDY 1a. - Development of the experimental procedure	65
3.2.1 Experimental stimuli and software requirements	65
3.2.2 The task and experimental procedure	66
3.2.3 Pilot study	68
3.3 STUDY 1b - Mastery versus performance goals in a competitive context: the role of competitor's performance evaluation	71
3.3.1 Research objectives and hypotheses	71
3.3.2 Methods	73
3.3.3 Results	77
3.3.3.1 Results for performance indicators	77
3.3.3.2 Results for performance contingencies	84
3.3.4 Discussion	89
3.3.5 Practical implications	94
3.3.6 Strengths and limitations	95
3.4 STUDY 2 - Impact of achievement goals, normative feedback, and task requirements on performance	97
3.4.1 The role of normative feedback in analyzing achievement goals' impact on performance	97
3.4.2 Research objectives and hypotheses	100
3.4.3 Methods	102
3.4.4 Results for intervention phase	105
3.4.4.1 Results for performance indicators	105
3.4.4.2 Results for performance contingencies	110
3.4.5 Discussion	115
3.4.6 Limitations and strengths	118
3.4.7 Implications for further research	119

CHAPTER 4 - LIFE THROUGH THE LENSES OF PERSONAL GOALS	121
4.1 Personal goals: definitions and general characteristics	124
4.1.1 Characteristics of personal goals	124
4.1.2 Conceptual construction of personal goals	126
4.2 Methodological dimensions in the investigation of personal goals	127
4.2.1 Normative approaches in the study of personal goals	128
4.2.2 Mixed/Multidimensional approaches in the study of personal goals	130
4.3 Evaluation of multidimensional approaches in the study of personal goals	138
4.4 Theoretical and methodological statements of personal goals which guide our research studies	143
4.5 Development of a mixed approach in the analysis of personal goals: The Personal Goal Investigation Procedure (PGIP)	145
4.5.1 Pilot study	146
4.5.2 Selection of life-domains for the PGIP	147
4.5.3 Selection of goal dimensions for the PGIP	148
4.5.4 Analysis of inter-goal relations	150

CHAPTER 5 - PERSONAL GOALS IN THE TRANSITION TO ADULTHOOD	153
5.1 STUDY 3 Personal goal dimensions and relations in the transition to adulthood	155
5.1.1 STUDY 3a. Within subject patterns of PG assessments	159
5.1.1.1 Aims of study and methods	160
5.1.1.2 Results	162
5.1.1.3 Discussion	165
5.1.2 STUDY 3b. Between subjects educational level, previous work experience and gender influences on PG assessments	170
5.1.2.1 Aims of study	173
5.1.2.2 Results	174
5.1.2.3 Discussion	176
5.2 STUDY 4 Investigation of goal management strategies for goal dimensions	179
5.2.1 Overview of the present study	179
5.2.2 Goal achievement orientations – the 2X2 dimensional model of achievement goals	180
5.2.3 Intentional self-regulation in the transition to adulthood	182
5.2.4 Aims of study	184

5.2.5 Instruments	185
5.2.6 Results and discussion	186
5.2.7 General discussion	191
CHAPTER 6 - BECOMING THE BEST: INTEGRATIVE REMARKS ON RESEARCH STUDIES	195
